An Important Message to Idaho's Senior Citizens — From Jim McClure, U.S. Senator, Retired:

John Grotta
[Redacted address block]

Dear John,

As your friend and as a retired Senator who spent 24 years fighting for your interests in Washington, D.C., I'd like to tell you about another friend of mine, Dirk Kempthorne.

Seniors like you and I — yes, I've qualified, I turned 67 last December — have a lot riding on the next Idaho Senator.

Too many politicians play seniors like a fine tuned fiddle. They pander to us when they want our vote, then turn on us when the pressure back in Washington is turned on.

I know Dirk Kempthorne. I've spent time talking to him about the issues you and I care about. Social Security is an issue critical to most people our age, yet it is used as a bargaining chip in the game of high stakes poker being played in Washington, D.C.

Dirk won't play that game! He knows most seniors rely on Social Security and he won't play games with it — period! It is a contract between a government and its citizens, and Dirk will never allow that contract to be broken.

Dirk is a fine man who understands the needs, worries and concerns of older citizens, whether it is Social Security or health care or financial security.

Many seniors are justifiably worried about their future. They remember a few years ago when inflation was double digits, and they are worried it will happen again. There is no crueler tax on people with fixed incomes than soaring inflation which devastates savings accounts and absorbs fixed incomes.

Dirk Kempthorne knows and understands your worries. Dirk Kempthorne will be a powerful voice for Idaho's seniors.

We couldn't have a better, more knowledgeable — and most importantly — a caring friend in the U.S. Senate.

When I go to vote on November 3rd, I will cast my vote for Dirk Kempthorne. I hope you will join me.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in cursive script that reads "Jim McClure".

James A. McClure
United States Senator, Retired

Dirk Kempthorne Will Be a Powerful Advocate for Idaho Seniors

Dirk Kempthorne Will Work Hard to Preserve Your Social Security Benefits

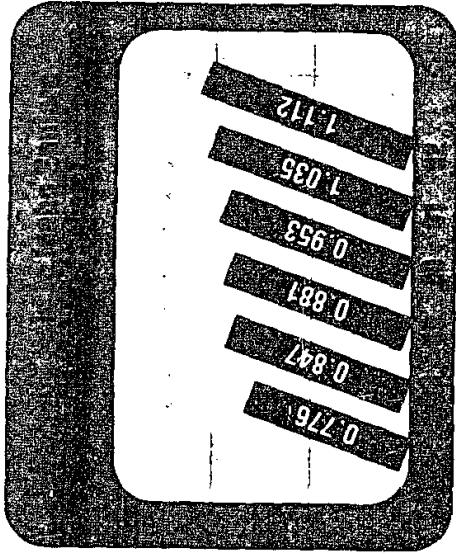

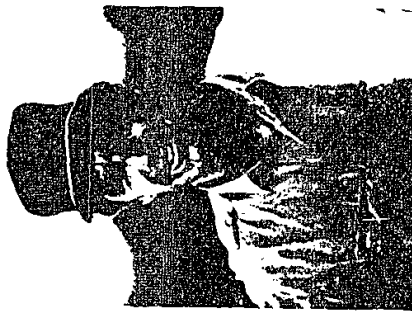

- Dirk Kempthorne will fight to make sure the budget isn't balanced on the backs of seniors
- Dirk Kempthorne will work to restore trust in the Social Security Trust Fund by taking a "gift budget"
- Dirk Kempthorne will not allow Social Security to be singled out for COLA cuts.
- Dirk Kempthorne will not rest until the earnings limit on outside income for Social Security recipients is eliminated.
- Dirk Kempthorne will never violate the Social Security "contract" with older Americans.

Dirk Kempthorne Will Fight for Accessible, Affordable Health Care for Idaho Seniors

- Dirk Kempthorne will fight against laws and rules which discriminate against Idaho seniors.
- Dirk Kempthorne will work to reduce or eliminate red tape in health care delivery which drives up costs and reduces patient choice in treatment.
- Dirk Kempthorne will work to repeal current Medicare laws which reimburse doctors less, making it harder for them to locate in rural areas like Idaho
- Dirk Kempthorne understands that medication costs are soaring and will work to streamline the bureaucratic process to keep drug costs down.
- Dirk Kempthorne will fight to make long term health care affordable.

Dirk Kempthorne Will Fight Criminals Who Victimize Senior Citizens

- Dirk Kempthorne, as mayor, led the fight to give police the resources to attack the criminals and keep his city's crime rate low.
- Dirk Kempthorne will back legislation to put criminals where they belong — in jail; with no plea bargaining, no probation or suspended sentences and no parole for thugs convicted of attacking senior citizens.

Dirk Kempthorne — A Personal Commitment to Idaho Senior Citizens

The chart above shows the benefits paid to Idaho seniors for the past six years. Dirk Kempthorne will continue in the tradition of our great Republican Senators; protecting senior benefits while working to downsize government and rebuild our national economy.

An Election Day Message to Idaho's Family Farmers and Ranchers From U.S. Senate Candidate Dirk Kempthorne

Dear Friend:

Idaho's farm and ranch families have a lot at stake in this election.

Before you make your decision, I think you deserve to know how the candidates for Senate stand on the issues affecting you.

Agriculture is the backbone of Idaho's economy. Idaho farmers have consistently led the nation in the production of potatoes and have ranked near the top in the production of sugar beets, wheat, dry peas and lentils, barley, onions, hops and mint. We grow corn, cherries, prunes, plums, apples, peaches and pears.

Beef production competes with potatoes as Idaho's largest cash crop. Idaho is famous for its lamb, wool, milk, cheese, honey — and I would be remiss if I failed to mention trout. Idaho is the nation's top producer of fresh rainbow trout.

As your Senator I promise:

- To never vote to put Idaho's water at risk. When it comes to outsiders wanting Idaho's water, I say, "NOT ONE DROP, NOT NOW, NOT EVER;"
- Never to put Idaho agriculture at a competitive disadvantage. I will fight for trade fairness;
- To root out unnecessary and costly federal over-regulation;
- To protect your 5th Amendment rights to private property and demand "just compensation" for actual or regulatory takings;
- To fight for a reasonable, common sense approach to resource management and the definition of wetlands;
- To stop Eastern efforts to kick ranchers off government land.

These are strong promises, and I don't break promises.

I believe in private property rights. I believe in states' rights. And I believe preserving family farms is vital to Idaho and America.

We produce the safest, most nutritious, most abundant and least expensive food supply on earth — and Idaho farmers and ranchers can compete with anyone on a level playing field.

My goal is to get government out of the way. And when it can't get out of the way, it ought to help, not intimidate or harass.

My opponent, Congressman Richard Stallings, believes in bigger government and more regulations. In 1990 the Idaho Cattle Association took Stallings to task for his vote to create a federal reserve water right in Nevada. That language is now a model for other states. If Stallings is elected, you could see that same language in Idaho's next wilderness bill.

Water is Idaho's lifeblood. Attacks on Idaho water come from every direction. Right now, the Endangered Species Act threatens to give federal control to virtually the entire Snake and Salmon river drainage! We can and will save the Salmon, but not by abdicating state water rights and not by bankrupting Idaho.

With your vote, I will fight to make our government listen again.

If you agree with me that government needs to be smaller, more efficient, and friendlier to those it serves, THEN THIS IS YOUR CAMPAIGN!

Pat and I ask you to join our campaign to preserve our family farms and ranches, protect our children's future and reclaim America.

... it's about his whole attitude toward the federal deficit and how Congress spends YOUR money.

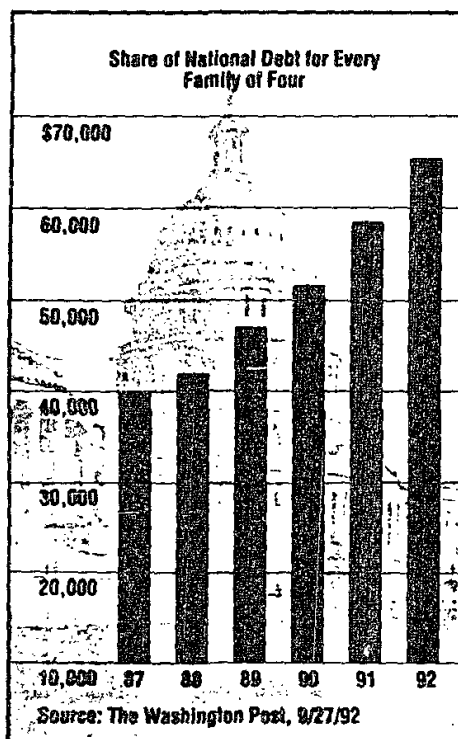

Richard Stallings Is Part of the Problem in Washington . . .

It's more than Congressman Richard Stallings' eight bounced checks totalling $7,585.64. This is just a symptom of the real problem.

Since first elected to Congress in 1984, Richard Stallings has voted for nearly $80 billion more in federal spending than requested by the federal bureaucracy. In the face of record deficits, he has voted 46 times on major appropriations bills to spend more money than the budgets submitted by federal bureaucrats. This amounts to an average of $1,235 in additional deficit spending for every family in Idaho!

This is the kind of Congressional check bouncing the people of Idaho really need to worry about!

According to the National Taxpayers Union, in the first 13 months of the 102 Congress, Richard Stallings has personally sponsored or co-sponsored legislation that would increase federal spending by $18,742,000,000. During this same period your Idaho Senators Steve Symms and Larry Craig sponsored legislation to reduce federal spending by over $20 billion.

The Stallings Legacy: Your Family's Share of the National Debt Since Richard Stallings has been in Congress

How does Richard Stallings want to pay for his spending spree? He voted with the House Democratic leadership to increase our taxes by $95 billion.

Is it any wonder Congressmen like Richard Stallings can't balance their own checkbooks?

... Dirk Kempthorne Wants to Be Part of the Solution.

Dirk Kempthorne has long been a champion of limited government and fiscal restraint. He knows the massive debt and uncontrolled federal spending are a threat to our children's future.

Congress is out of control and must be reined in. The power of the special interests must be broken. That's why, unlike Richard Stallings, Dirk Kempthorne favors national term limits for Congressmen and Senators.

In stark contrast to Congress' record, Dirk Kempthorne as Mayor helped create over 27,000 jobs and $2 billion in new construction. He knows higher taxes on our incomes and businesses aren't the answer. He knows cutting federal waste and pork barrel spending must start now. He's for an immediate freeze on federal spending and hiring. Dirk Kempthorne supports a balanced budget amendment, the line-item veto and an end to costly and burdensome federal regulations, edicts, and mandates.

But let me be clear. I will not support massive government intrusion into our private health care system. I reject socialized medicine as a solution because I know it will only lead to waiting lists, poor service and mediocrity in our health care.

Q If you could make one statement new to every voter, not some campaign slogan, but something from the heart, what would it be?

DIRK KEMPTHORNE: Simply this. I know people are frustrated with the federal government. You're outraged and angry. So am I. But it's not too late to save our country. It's still a great country with great people in it. We owe too much to our children and future generations to just give up. We have to keep trying. I believe in America. I believe the people of Idaho have the courage to send someone to Washington who's not afraid to rock the boat. Not afraid to do what's right — not just what's easy. I'm not asking people to join my campaign but to join our crusade to bring dignity and common sense back to our Congress. Working together, we can still make a difference.

sation for private property takings when they're necessary. I will fight for a production and market-oriented Farm Bill and I will fight to maintain a fair and equitable grazing fee that recognizes the stewardship contributions of our ranchers.

Q What about the rest of us — the small business community and ordinary working people?

DIRK KEMPTHORNE: I fully support reform of our legal system to prevent frivolous lawsuits damaging our economy and competitiveness. I support a reduction in the Capital Gains Tax. I support investment tax credits to help our businesses grow and create jobs. I support fully deductible IRAs, with penalty-free withdrawal for home purchase, education and medical expenses.

Q A lot of people are concerned about health care. Do you have a plan?

DIRK KEMPTHORNE: Yes, I realize affordable and accessible health care is more than a growing concern for many Idaho families. It's a life or death issue. Incentives must be provided to attract doctors and health care personnel to rural states like Idaho. I strongly support tax credits to help contain costs and keep decent health care and insurance within reach. I also support a system of Individual Medical Accounts like IRA's where pre-tax dollars can be used for health care costs and 100% tax deductibility of health insurance costs for the self-employed.

Dirk Kempthorne On the Issues: Tough Questions the People of Idaho Want Answered from Their Next Senator

Q You say you want to go to Washington to change the system. What makes you think you can succeed where others have failed?

DIRK KEMPTHORNE: It's a question of attitude. I have never been part of the system in Washington. My experience as Mayor showed me that working with, not against, the private sector, can mean real progress for everybody. In Boise we actually added 27,000 new jobs in the community while keeping the lid on government bureaucracy.

Q Yes, But can one senator from a small state really make that much difference?

DIRK KEMPTHORNE: There's no doubt in my mind that if I go to Washington with an attitude of doing what's right: Of bucking the system when necessary. Of having the courage to speak out instead of playing the "go-along-to-get-a-long" game, I can make a difference.

I have grown up admiring people like Barry Goldwater. When Barry Goldwater first went to the Senate from being a city councilman in Phoenix, he wasn't satisfied with the status quo. When the rest of Congress talked politics, he talked principles. His devotion to conservative principle — to do what was right, not what was expedient — earned him the respect of his colleagues and enabled him to have an influence way beyond his one vote. That's the kind of Senator I want to be.

Q What kind of changes are you talking about? How will you focus your activities?

DIRK KEMPTHORNE: It's very simple. We have to create jobs and balance the federal budget. We must not be the generation that sentences our kids and grand kids to a lifetime of debt. We have to balance the federal budget. We have to do it without massive new taxes on working families and we have to do it soon.

Q How?

DIRK KEMPTHORNE: By getting the special interests out of the loop and bringing federal spending under control.

Q What about jobs?

DIRK KEMPTHORNE: We need to create jobs. More jobs. Better jobs. But government is not the solution. Free enterprise is the only force on earth that has the power to create jobs, build prosperity and provide decent livings for our families. I will work as hard as I can to get government out of the way of free enterprise and make sure Idaho is a place where companies feel welcome.

Q What about environmental concerns? Can we build jobs and protect Idaho's environment?

DIRK KEMPTHORNE: Absolutely, it's a question of balance. I love the land as much as any Idahoan. But when it comes to putting our jobs and our families' futures at risk, we have got to strike a balance. I want to protect endangered species but I want to make sure Idaho workers don't become endangered in the process.

Q Your opponent, Congressman Richard Stallings, says he's for change, too. Are you two really that different in your approach?

DIRK KEMPTHORNE: There's a big difference in philosophy. We have a fundamentally different approach to government. I am a conservative. I believe in private property rights. I believe in states rights. I believe in limited government. Congressman Stallings' record shows he supports big government. He believes big federal programs can solve our problems. He votes for more spending and taxes. I won't.

Q Then it's a conservative vs. liberal thing?

DIRK KEMPTHORNE: Yes it is. But it's more than that. I'm against midnight pay raises, special check bouncing privileges and the whole system of perks that says Congressmen are something special. These perks are insults to hard-working taxpayers — especially to those who are struggling to get through this recession. My opponent has played right along with this system of outrageous perks. I call it arrogance.

Q Okay, but where do you differ on specific issues of concern to the voters?

DIRK KEMPTHORNE: I say freeze federal spending and hiring immediately. In this session of Congress alone Congressman Stallings has sponsored or co-sponsored legislation increasing federal spending by over $18 billion. I say let's have a balanced budget amendment. I say we can't raise federal taxes; Congressman Stallings voted to increase federal taxes by $95 billion.

Q Then your differences are primarily economic, on taxes and spending?

DIRK KEMPTHORNE: There are other differences between us.

For example, when Congress tried to give the federal government more control over state water rights, Congressman Stallings voted yes; I say, not one drop; not now; not ever!

Another big difference. Congressman Stallings wants to cut military spending in half. Cut the B-2 bomber; cut the Strategic Defense Initiative. I think this is very dangerous.

Q But the Soviet Union is gone. Can't we make do with a lot less defense spending?

DIRK KEMPTHORNE: I recognize the Cold War is over and we should make some significant cuts. But I also realize the world is still a dangerous place and the surest way to achieve national security is through a strong defense. The surest way to provoke war is to seriously weaken our defense. Our sons and daughters in uniform deserve nothing less than the best equipment and technology available.

I notice when conservatives and liberals debate about war and peace issues it always comes to this. Conservatives like me believe the most important thing is freedom. We're willing to pay the price to protect it. Liberals seem to think the most important thing is peace. Peace at any price. China is peaceful. Cuba is peaceful. I wouldn't want to live there, would you?

Q Where do you come down on gun control?

DIRK KEMPTHORNE: I'm an avid gun collector and outdoorsman. I believe in the Second Amendment of the Constitution and the right of the people to keep and bear arms. I will vigorously fight to protect and maintain that right.

Q But what about real "pocketbook issues" for families, farmers and ranchers who may be struggling now? Do you have more to offer than rhetoric?

DIRK KEMPTHORNE: Yes I do. First of all, to our family farmers and ranchers let me say that I support free trade when it's fair trade. But I will go after the trade cheaters with a vengeance. I want to remove excessive and costly federal regulations on the farm chemicals needed to enhance production. I will push for a rational and reasonable definition of wetlands—and fair compen-

Dirk Kempthorne's Challenge: Let's Bring Dignity Back to Politics. Dirk Kempthorne believes 1992 will be the year the people of Idaho take back their national government. Like you, Dirk Kempthorne is tired of Congress not doing its job. Tired of midnight pay raises, bounced checks, and a government that never stops getting bigger while accomplishing less.

Dirk Kempthorne

An Idaho Voice to Put Washington Right

Dirk Kempthorne knows we must address the federal deficit crisis before it destroys our quality of life and sentences our children to generations of debt. That's why Dirk Kempthorne favors a Balanced Budget Amendment and a Line Item Veto. He knows raising taxes isn't the answer to the federal budget crisis. The process of getting the federal budget under control must begin with an immediate spending and hiring freeze.

Dirk Kempthorne knows that affordable and accessible health care is a growing concern for many of our families. He supports tax credits and other initiatives that will help contain health care costs and keep decent health care within reach. He does not support massive government intrusion into our private health care system. He rejects socialized medicine which could only lead to waiting lists, poor service and mediocrity in our health care.

Dirk Kempthorne will fight for senior citizens and to protect the Social Security fund from being robbed to reduce the deficit. Dirk Kempthorne refuses to accept the notion that the budget must be balanced on the backs of our senior citizens.

Dirk Kempthorne will fight to change welfare into workfare and to build jobs and opportunity for all our families.

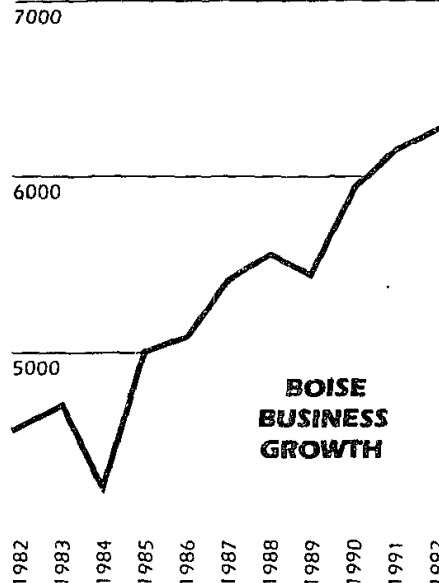

The Kempthorne Record in Boise: Unleashing Free Enterprise Creating Jobs and Opportunity

While Congress has gridlocked us into a $400 trillion national debt, an ever increasing tax burden, a sinking economy and growing unemployment, Dirk Kempthorne's Boise has overcome the urban problems found in most of the nation. Dirk Kempthorne has actively encouraged retail and small business development to renew and revitalize Idaho's largest city. And he's learned a lesson most members of Congress ignore, you can't spend money you don't have.

Dirk Kempthorne's two terms as Mayor of Boise prove how positive change can happen when the power of the private sector is unleashed. And when government is kept close to people, honest and within the means of its taxpayers. Today, Boise is a national model of small business growth, job creation, and a safe, decent place to raise a family.

Dirk Kempthorne Invites You to Join His Crusade for Change

Dear Friend,

I am asking for your support in my race for the U.S. Senate. I want your support because I think you feel as I do that our government is too big. It spends too much. It taxes too much. And it over-regulates our businesses, ranches, farms and mills.

As Mayor of Boise for the last seven years I know government doesn't have to be big and intrusive to be effective.

I think you agree with me we have too many professional politicians in Washington. I have no desire to make a career out of being a Senator. I strongly support national term limits for federal office and limiting the term of a United States Senator to two terms. What we do need in Washington are concerned citizens with the courage to face the special interests and pressure groups and do what's right for Idaho and the country.

As your Senator I will fight to change government. To make it smaller and closer to the people.

If you agree with me that the time has come to stop the madness in Washington, to reform Congress and return common sense to our government, then this is your campaign!

Patricia and I ask you to join our campaign to preserve Idaho's quality of life, protect our children's future and reclaim America.

Leading the Fight Against Driftnets

On October 4, 1992, just a few days ago, the U.S. House of Representatives passed Bob Packwood's Driftnet Bill. The Senate already unanimously approved this important legislation authorizing the President to impose tough trade sanctions against nations that violate the driftnet ban.

has been a leading voice against driftnets since 1987. Bob Packwood introduced powerful anti-driftnet legislation in every session of Congress since 1987. In the fight to ban driftnetting, Bob Packwood has stood up to the Japanese, the Koreans, the Taiwanese, the Chinese. . . and he took on President Bush when he balked in the face of international pressure.

The result of Bob Packwood's tough leadership: All major driftnet nations have agreed to ban this devastating practice. The United Nations has voted a global ban on driftnetting. And the bill that just passed the House was first introduced by Bob Packwood to insure the ban stays in effect.

Bob Packwood:

A Powerful Advocate for Oregon's Fishing Industry.

Fishermen's Protective Act — An amendment sponsored by Bob Packwood, approved by Congress and signed into law. It removes red tape and guarantees U.S. fishermen are reimbursed for damage to their boats and gear from foreign fishing vessels.

Fish Hatcheries — Bob Packwood's provision to the National Oceanic Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) Marine Fisheries Program funded Columbia River hatcheries, as well as other fishery conservation and management activities in Oregon.

Fishermen's Withholding Tax — Bob Packwood succeeded in 1984 in extending a ban on the collection of unemployment tax withholdings from a majority of coastal fishermen.

Name Change of Hake to Pacific Whiting — Bob Packwood helped persuade the U.S. Food and Drug Administration that this name change of an important Oregon fishery would result in increased consumer acceptance and create new markets for Oregon fishermen.

Marine Institute — In 1984 Congress enacted Bob Packwood's proposal to create the national Coastal Resources Research and Development Institute in Newport, Oregon. The Center focuses on jobs and the coastal economy.

El Niño Aid — Bob Packwood worked to help secure low-interest small business loans for Oregon fishermen and businesses adversely affected by the El Niño weather condition.

Bob Packwood
for U.S. Senate

A Special Election Message
from Bob Packwood:

Dear Friend:

Times are tough in Oregon — and across America.

Tough times demand tough leadership. I have proved time and again that I am an effective fighter for what's right. Right for you and the people of Oregon. Right for America.

My opponent and I have real differences in how we will cast our votes over the next six years.

When you vote on Tuesday, November 3rd, I ask you to carefully consider the impact of those differences on you and your family.

Please don't make the mistake of thinking your vote doesn't count. It does. I need your vote and your support as we face the future together.

Thank you for your support.

... it's about his whole attitude toward the federal deficit and how Congress spends YOUR money.

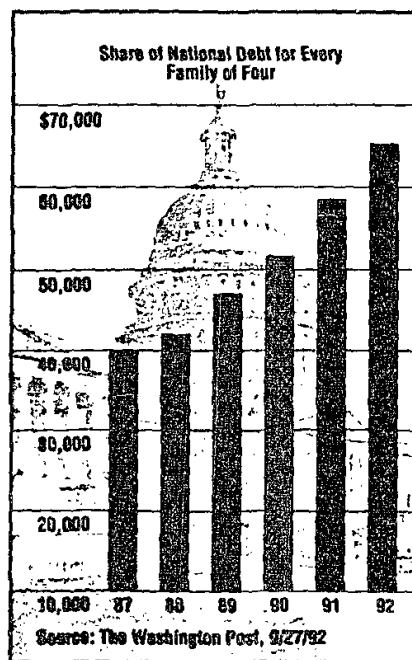

Les AuCoin Is Part of the Problem in Washington. . .

The record shows Congressman Les AuCoin bounced more than 80 checks in 39 months. This amounts to an interest free personal loan of over $60,000. But this is just a symptom of the real problem.

During his 18 years in Congress Les AuCoin has consistently supported bigger government. More taxes. More spending.

He believes taxpayers like you aren't taxed enough and that Congressmen aren't paid enough. The record shows he voted himself a $30,000 pay raise and has collected over $38,000 in speaking fees in just one year — missing so many votes he has the worst attendance record in the Oregon delegation.

Les AuCoin says he's for change. But his voting record reveals his true colors: business-as-usual politics and a gridlocked

The AuCoin Legacy: Your Family's Share of the Federal Deficit Over the Last Six Years

Congress dominated by pay, perks and personal power. It's no wonder Les AuCoin opposes term limits on Congress.

Les AuCoin also opposes the balanced budget amendment and the line-item veto. He supports tax increases on working families. His voting record has earned him the lowest National Tax Limitation Committee rating of the entire Oregon Congressional delegation — supporting the interests of taxpayers only 33% of the time. The National Taxpayers Union calls Les AuCoin the 7th biggest spender in the 101st Congress.

Is it any wonder Congressmen like Les AuCoin can't balance their own checkbooks?

... Bob Packwood Is Part of the Solution.

Unlike Les AuCoin, Bob Packwood is a proven leader in the fight for leaner government.

- Bob Packwood has voted FOR the balanced budget amendment every time it's been before Congress.
- Bob Packwood strongly supports the line-item veto.
- Bob Packwood supports term limits for federal officeholders.
- Bob Packwood voted against the 1991, $30,000 Congressional pay raise.

Bob Packwood's commitment to limited government and fiscal restraint has earned him six Watchdog of the Treasury Awards since he's been in the Senate.

Oregon's Jobs. Oregon's Future.

Bob Packwood Knows It's a Question of Balance.

When the Spotted Owl was listed as an endangered species, 35,000 timber families faced unemployment. Unlike others, Bob Packwood immediately knew where he stood on this issue: squarely on the side of Oregon timber workers, their families and their communities. Bob Packwood thinks the Endangered Species Act should be amended so that people and jobs and communities count as much as bugs and birds. Bob Packwood will continue to lead the fight to protect Oregon jobs from the extremists who place wildlife over human lives.

In addition to Bob Packwood's fight to change the Endangered Species Act, he has also introduced an additional timber bill directing that the forest be managed so that jobs be protected. Congressman AuCoin has also introduced a different timber bill. However, the two bills are dramatically different.

The difference cannot be more clearly stated than by a memo from Irvin Fletcher, the President of the Oregon AFL-CIO, to all members of Congress. In commenting on the two bills, Fletcher said the AuCoin bill,

"is bad policy and bad politics. This bill falls short in its attempt to resolve the current dilemma between preserving the habitat of the northern Spotted Owl and protecting the livelihoods and communities of working men and women of the forest products industry."

The AuCoin bill,

"... will be actively opposed by Oregon organized labor, its allies, and by grass roots action across the state."

The AuCoin bill,

"... will cost the region another 30,000 to 40,000 jobs."

Instead, Fletcher continued, the Packwood bill,

"is the only measure before Congress that provides a comprehensive long-term solution to the forest management crisis ... I strongly urge you to consider the consequences the [AuCoin bill] poses to the Pacific Northwest. Please help working people's families and their communities instead by supporting the [Packwood bill] Forest and Families Protection Act."

Bob Packwood: A Powerful Advocate for Oregon's Timber Families and Timber Industry

Salvage Timber — Bob Packwood has helped lead the fight to push the Administration to expedite salvage operations of dead and dying timber. Now that salvage has been expedited, there will be another 250 to 450 million board feet of timber harvest available and forest fire danger will be greatly reduced.

Dislocated Woodworkers — In 1985, Bob Packwood helped obtain a $675,000 federal grant to aid dislocated woodworkers in Oregon.

Reforestation — In 1980, Congress enacted Bob Packwood's proposal to create a $30 million per year trust fund to finance reforestation and timber stand improvement projects on U.S. Forest Service lands. In 1984 Bob Packwood led the fight to preserve the reforestation trust fund from Administration moves to kill the program.

Canadian Timber Imports — In 1986 Bob Packwood spearheaded efforts to get the United States and Canada to sign an agreement imposing a tariff on Canadian softwood lumber imports. Bob Packwood is for free trade that is fair trade. He will continue to fight subsidized Canadian lumber products that take jobs away from Oregon's timber industries.

Bob Packwood's efforts to save Oregon timber jobs is the kind of leadership we've come to expect from a man who's never been afraid to say "NO" to the special interests, the bureaucrats ... or even the President of his own party. Over the years Bob Packwood has proved time and again that he is an effective fighter for what's right. Right for you and the people of Oregon. Right for America. He has the integrity, independence, courage and commitment to fight for meaningful change in our government.

A Record of Accomplishment for Oregon Farmers and Ranchers

2025 RELEASE UNDER E.O. 14176

Bob Packwood: A Powerful Advocate for Oregon's Family Farms and Ranches

Agricultural Exports — Bob Packwood recognizes the importance of exports for Oregon agriculture and works to ensure markets for Oregon products. He voted against the Textile and Apparel Trade Enforcement Act of 1985 because it was a direct threat to Oregon exports to Asia and a free trade policy. He supported an amendment to the Export Administration Act of 1984 to limit Presidential authority to impose embargoes on agricultural products.

Farm Credit — Bob Packwood actively supported a resolution urging the Farm Credit System to allow farmers the time to restructure loans to avoid foreclosure.

Wheat Industry — Bob Packwood has worked to keep wheat a major product in Oregon. He successfully negotiated a compromise with the Administration on port user fees to allow expansion of the Bonneville Lock to help transport Eastern Oregon wheat.

Livestock — Bob Packwood supported an amendment to stop the decline of red meat prices which resulted from the Department of Agriculture's dairy herd buy-out program. On the issue of grazing fees, Bob Packwood supports the Bureau of Land Management's study. He is opposed to large fee increases which would be detrimental to Oregon's livestock industry.

An Election Day Message to Oregon's Family Farmers and Ranchers From: Bob Packwood

Dear Friend:

Oregon's family farms and ranches have a lot at stake in this election.

I believe preserving our family farms and ranches is vital to our state — and our Nation.

We have the safest, most nutritious and abundant food supply on earth — and Oregon agriculture can compete with anyone in the world. I am proud of my role in making sure government helps Oregon agriculture grow and prosper. I am particularly proud to have been endorsed for re-election on October 16th by the Oregon Farm Bureau.

Before you make your decision on Tuesday, November 3rd, I think you deserve to know how I stand on issues affecting Oregon agriculture.

Please take this opportunity to remind yourself of all that we have done working together to make a better life for Oregon's family farms and ranches. Then, please go to the polls and give me your vote so we can continue our partnership.

Sincerely,

Bob Packwood

Bob Packwood

Dairy Industry — Bob Packwood strongly supports Oregon's dairy stabilization program. He has worked to get Oregon dairy cattle considered for export under the USDA's Export Enhancement Program.

Potato Industry — Bob Packwood has acted to make sure Oregon is one of the nation's leaders in the production and processing of potatoes. He has worked to remove unfair trade barriers in Korea and Taiwan for U.S. potatoes.

Agricultural Research — Bob Packwood supports funding projects to develop new and more productive crops and eliminate pests and diseases. He cosponsored a Senate-passed bill to establish a program in the USDA to research and develop new crops and alternative uses of existing plant varieties.

Trade Reform — Bob Packwood strongly supports reduction of world-wide agricultural subsidies — and increasing U.S. commodity exports. As ranking minority leader of the Senate Finance Committee, he is working on legislation to rewrite U.S. trade laws.

Bob Packwood stands out as a leader and an independent voice in our state's politics.

But Packwood has never been allowed to do what is right. He stands up for some of the people of Oregon. He does good and it is so. No one has the right to make the political debates or even the President his own party.

When the spotted owl was listed as an endangered species, 35,000 timber families faced unemployment. That's why Bob Packwood wrote the Federal Lands and Families Protection Act, to strike a balance between environmental protection and jobs. As a fourth generation Oregonian, Bob Packwood is all for protecting our state's special environmental heritage — including endangered species. But he wants to make sure Oregon jobs don't become endangered in the process.

Bob Packwood knows that a strong and prosperous future for Oregon and America begins with a good education for our children. Bob Packwood is not afraid to challenge the education establishment to come up with new ways to prepare our children for a changing world.

And Bob Packwood has launched a bold new initiative to make quality health care accessible and affordable to all our families — without creating another massive bureaucracy in Washington, DC demanding more of your tax dollars.

America needs tough leaders to restore our economy and protect our children's future. That's why Bob Packwood has voted for the balanced budget amendment every time it's been before Congress and supports a line-item veto.

Bob Packwood is for real reform in Congress—not just quick fixes to appease the voters. Bob Packwood opposed the 1991 $30,000

Congressional pay raise. And, like you, he's outraged by the perks, arrogance and scandal that dominate our government. Bob Packwood supports term limits for federal office.

Bob Packwood's commitment to limited government and fiscal restraint has earned him six Watchdog of the Treasury Awards since he's been in the Senate.

Real Issues. Real Change. Real Differences.

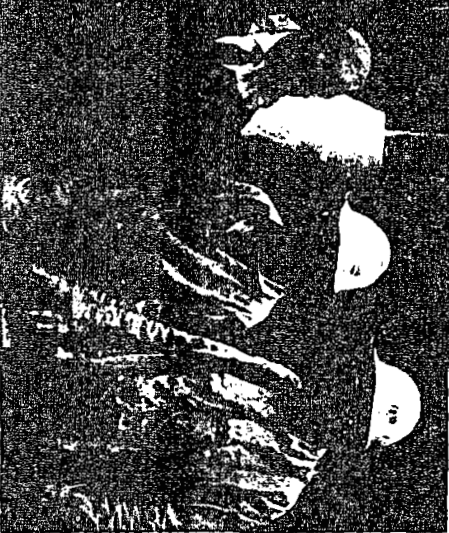

Over the years Bob Packwood has proved time and again that he is an effective fighter for what's right. Right for you and the people of Oregon. Right for America. He has the integrity, independence, courage and commitment to fight for meaningful change in our government.

it has been estimated as many as 40 million sea animals were killed annually by driftnets.

Bob Packwood has been a leading voice against driftnets since 1987. In the fight to ban driftnetting, Bob Packwood has stood up to the Japanese, the Koreans, the Taiwanese, the Chinese . . . and he took on President Bush when he balked in the face of international pressure. Bob Packwood led the charge to ban driftnets in the Congress, a fight culminating in the House bill that just passed. Bob Packwood also led the charge to have the U.N. take action because he knew only international action can truly stop scourge.

Bob Packwood immediately recognized the severity of the driftnet problem. He quickly offered legislation providing punitive trade sanctions against driftnet nations — not just on fish products — but on major export items. And he's never let up in his drive to end driftnetting.

Bob Packwood knows driftnets not only destroy marine life but also Oregon jobs. Thousands of Oregonians depend on commercial fishing and related industries. Driftnets strip mine the sea of life and upset the balance of the ocean food chain. Each year the driftnets indiscriminately killed millions of fish, birds and whales and sea mammals. In 1990 alone just 10% of Japan's driftnet fleet killed 1,758 whales and dolphins, 253,288 tuna, 81,956 blue sharks, 30,464 sea birds and more than 3 million other non-target fish including salmon tagged from Columbia River basin hatcheries. In all

The result of Bob Packwood's tough leadership: All major driftnet nations have agreed to ban this devastating practice. The United Nations has voted a global ban on driftnetting. And the bill that just passed the House was first introduced by Senator Packwood to insure the ban stays in effect.

REAL ISSUES. REAL CHANGE. REAL DIFFERENCES.

Bob Packwood's crusade to ban driftnetting and protect Oregon jobs is the kind of leadership we've come to expect from a man who's never been afraid to say "NO" to the special interests, the bureaucrats . . . or even the President of his own party. Affecting the Financial Security and the Quality of Life of Oregon Seniors, Bob Packwood Has Been a Leader.

Congressman Les AuCoin Cannot Say the Same.

Point:

Bob Packwood led the fight for elimination of the Social Security earnings test. He knows this unfair legislation keeps the experience and skill of many productive seniors from making a needed contribution to our economy.

Counterpoint:

Congressman Les AuCoin introduced legislation in 1976 to cut senior's investment and dividend income in determining whether your Social Security payments would be reduced.

Point:

Bob Packwood is leading the fight in the Senate to maintain full funding for the Low Income Energy Assistance Program which provides a vital safety net to the poor and elderly. This program is a lifeline to 60,000 Oregonians who have no other way to heat and light their homes.

Point:

[REDACTED]

Dear John,

When it comes to protecting the interests of senior citizens I have never been a bystander. I have been an outspoken leader in senior related issues since I was first elected to the U.S. Senate.

I never forget that more than 520,000 of our fellow Oregonians count on maintaining the fiscal integrity of the Social Security system. I have been an outspoken advocate in protecting and expanding your Social Security benefits. . . fighting for affordable long term health care. . .and accessible health care in rural areas.

As ranking Republican on the Senate Finance Committee, the committee that oversees health care issues, I have been in a good position to not just support, but to shape the legislative agenda affecting the quality of your health care.

My responsibility to you and Oregon seniors is one I take very seriously.

I will never give up the fight for financial security, dignity and quality of life for the elderly of this state and our nation.

I need your help on November 3 to win re-election as your U.S. Senator and keep on defending the benefits that are rightfully yours.

Please take this opportunity to remind yourself of all that we have done working together to make a better life for Oregon's senior citizens. Then, on Tuesday, November 3rd, please go to the polls and give me your vote.

Sincerely,

In 1976, Congressman Les AuCoin introduced legislation to count senior's investment and dividend income in determining whether your Social Security payments would be reduced.

Bob Packwood is Fighting for Affordable Long-Term Health Care

Last Year Bob Packwood co-sponsored Secure Choice, a bold new initiative to make long-term health care more available and affordable for the elderly. Secure Choice works from three directions: (1) it increases the number of Americans who can get long-term care assistance from government; (2) it helps low and moderate income seniors purchase more affordable long-term care insurance; and (3) it fixes the tax code so more insurers can afford to offer long-term care coverage to seniors.

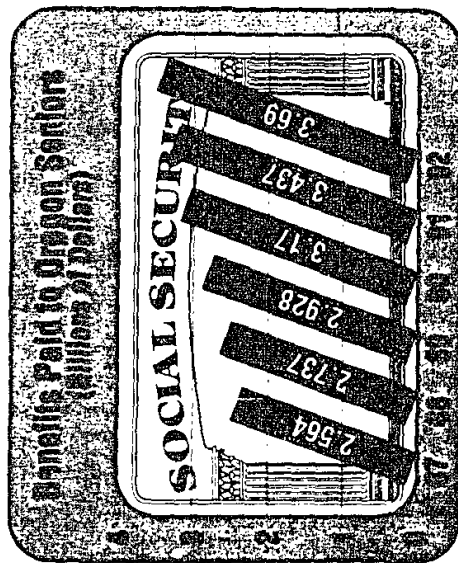

Bob Packwood is Fighting for Accessible Health Care

Bob Packwood sponsored the Rural Health Care Improvement Act to help keep hospitals open in rural areas where many of our seniors face inadequate medical facilities and are forced to travel long distances for medical attention. He has also introduced the Rural Primary Care Act of 1991 to help attract young doctors to rural health care facilities.

Bob Packwood Stands Up to Congress to Provide Energy Assistance for the Poor and Elderly
